

Stop the Intervention Collective Sydney
Invites you to a special Human Rights Day screening of

Another Country

A film told by David Gulpilil

Followed by discussion with director Molly Reynolds, FISTT representative Lynda Coe and at Jumbunna Indigenous House of Learning Senior Researcher, Jason De Santolo

When: 6pm Friday 9 December

Where: Redfern Community Centre
29-53 Hugo Street, Redfern

Stop The Intervention Collective Sydney presents a challenging and inspiring film allowing the audience to hear directly from David Gulpilil on the experience of living in the Northern Territory in the 21st century.

★★★★★

Luke Buckmaster, The Guardian

Stop the Intervention Collective Sydney
Invites you to a special Human Rights Day screening of

Another Country

A film told by David Gulpilil

Followed by discussion with director Molly Reynolds, FISTT representative Lynda Coe and at Jumbunna Indigenous House of Learning Senior Researcher, Jason De Santolo

When: 6pm Friday 9 December

Where: Redfern Community Centre
29-53 Hugo Street, Redfern

Stop The Intervention Collective Sydney presents a challenging and inspiring film allowing the audience to hear directly from David Gulpilil on the experience of living in the Northern Territory in the 21st century.

★★★★★

Luke Buckmaster, The Guardian

★★★★★

“Gulpillil’s commentary is dramatic, enlightening, earnest, at times playful and mischievous... It is the heart and soul of this rich, deeply thoughtful and humane documentary” Luke Buckmaster, The Guardian

In ‘Another Country’ David Gulpillil speaks directly to the audience to telling a truth not told before on film. “This film is as much about you as me and my people. It is about place and about history. To know what is best for us, you have to know us. No one from any government has ever know our language. How can they know us?”

In ‘Another Country’, David Gulpillil explores the impact that successive government policies have had on him and his community, especially the Northern Territory Emergency Response also known as the Intervention. The Intervention was enacted by the Howard government in 2007 as an ‘emergency measure’ and rebranded ‘Stronger Futures’ by the Gillard government in 2012.

The Intervention has been widely criticised for violating the human rights of First Nations people and for causing increased harm and despair, rather than reducing disadvantage. Rosalie Kunoth-Monks stated in The Australian “We fought for land rights but where are we today? The attacks on us have been relentless, the Intervention as part of the cruel relentlessness. The Intervention dismantled what we did have of self determination. Today we see the process of assimilation in full swing”.

This voice needs to be heard. The opportunity to see the film and hear from the film maker in discussion with local Aboriginal activists marking International Human Rights Day is not to be missed.

For more information:

Website: www.stoptheintervention.org

f “Stop the Intervention Collective Sydney”

Phone: Cathy 0422 385 852

Donate to Stop the Intervention Collective:

BSB: 062 212    Account: 1045 2725

ABN: 56 162 064 644

★★★★★

“Gulpillil’s commentary is dramatic, enlightening, earnest, at times playful and mischievous. It is the heart and soul of this rich, deeply thoughtful and humane documentary” Luke Buckmaster, The Guardian

In ‘Another Country’ David Gulpillil speaks directly to the audience to telling a truth not told before on film. “This film is as much about you as me and my people. It is about place and about history. To know what is best for us, you have to know us. No one from any government has ever know our language. How can they know us?”

In ‘Another Country’, David Gulpillil explores the impact that successive government policies have had on him and his community, especially the Northern Territory Emergency Response also known as the Intervention. The Intervention was enacted by the Howard government in 2007 as an ‘emergency measure’ and rebranded ‘Stronger Futures’ by the Gillard government in 2012.

The Intervention has been widely criticised for violating the human rights of First Nations people and for causing increased harm and despair, rather than reducing disadvantage. Rosalie Kunoth-Monks stated in The Australian “We fought for land rights but where are we today? The attacks on us have been relentless, the Intervention as part of the cruel relentlessness. The Intervention dismantled what we did have of self determination. Today we see the process of assimilation in full swing”.

This voice needs to be heard. The opportunity to see the film and hear from the film maker in discussion with local Aboriginal activists marking International Human Rights Day is not to be missed.

For more information:

Website: www.stoptheintervention.org

f “Stop the Intervention Collective Sydney”

Phone: Cathy 0422 385 852

Donate to Stop the Intervention Collective:

BSB: 062 212    Account: 1045 2725

ABN: 56 162 064 644